

To be a Humanitarian is to provide charity and justice to those less fortunate. It is to be a beacon of hope for the hopeless, the lost and forgotten in modern society.

Romero Urban Challenge Program 2017

Camden, New Jersey is one of the most economically disadvantaged cities in the U.S. The residents suffer from unemployment, poverty, urban decay, and many other social issues.

For six years the AC Humanitarians has made yearly trips to volunteer at the Romero Center. We provide humanitarian relief and assist in community outreach programs.

Students experience first-hand the reality and issues of poverty, hunger, and social justice through our pro-active service group and activities.

These experiences help shape students to be socially-conscious, compassionate leaders.

This year, we need your help! In order to fund next year's trip, we need to raise $7000 by February 2017 for the cost of lodging, transportation and activity programs. We are hoping to have at least 18 participants and raise $400 per person.

You can make the difference by participating in our upcoming fundraising activities and social outreach programs.

Take up the challenge and make a difference!
